

Library of the Future

1ST PRIZE WINNER

Category 7-10 years old

“Library of the Future”

Written by M.W.

Dear diary

My first time at a library was way back years ago! On a perfect day at my lovely school, the Teacher told us that we would go to our library upstairs. I never knew what a library was, but I was so excited to see what it was like! She told us that we would go in groups so we don't get really loud and messy. She said some of our names one by one and she also called out mine! We needed to be super quiet while we were walking down the corridor because we might disturb other classes. 🙄 We had to be careful going up the stairs because it was very steep. I was so surprised when I saw what the library looked like! I even said 'woah!' it was time to get a book, oh and I got a really good one it was called Hilda. I read it for about 3 minutes, and it was AWESOME!!

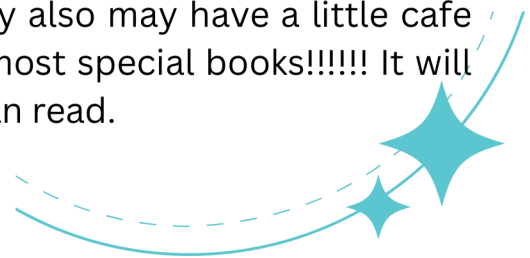

after that my teacher scanned the book so it was mine.

We walked down the stairs safely and went back to the classroom .

Everyone in class was reading their book for a while and after the second group was back we would start guided reading.

I predict that in the future library's would have robots to do what librarians do.

They would replace new fresh books and take away the old ones that had ripped pages. They would also help people find where the book they want. Also, I think that that they will upgrade the paper. Maybe it will be cheaper to borrow books and it will be like a maze! There might be more letters like ng or au so people find even more interesting books that they can read. They also may have a little cafe at the side of the library. But ... in the middle is the most special books!!!!!! It will probably have 2 floors and little private rooms you can read.

I'm 90 years old and now at my little cabin I'm feeling very very sick but, I thought to myself, why can't I just walk to the library! So I did. I was astonished at how the library was because I hadn't been there since I was 49! And I think when I wrote a diary at the age of 6 my prediction was correct!!!! I was looking for a book for homemade medicine, so I asked one of the robots with my creaky voice, and it led me to the medication books. I said thanks and took the book I needed to take it to the scanner area. After that, I walked back home, and I made the medication, and it worked on me! Being at the library was so helpful and I really loved it there!

If you read my diary then never tell anyone about

